Public Workshop Set for November 12, 2015:

Outer Cape Bicycle and Pedestrian Master Plan

BARNSTABLE COUNTY, MA – Representatives from Provincetown, Truro, Wellfleet, Cape Cod National Seashore, and the Cape Cod Commission will host the third in a series of public workshops on the Outer Cape Bicycle and Pedestrian Master Plan on Thursday, November 12, 2015, at Provincetown Town Hall, 260 Commercial Street, from 4:00 – 5:30 p.m.

The National Park Service, through Cape Cod National Seashore, is partnering with the towns and the Commission to develop plans for an interconnected bicycle/pedestrian network linking the towns with the Seashore, the Cape Cod Rail Trail, and other destinations within the communities.

The Master Plan project is funded by a Paul S. Sarbanes Transit in the Parks grant, a Federal Transit Administration program established to address increasing vehicle congestion in and around national parks and other federal lands.

The purpose of the workshop is to gather public input on the preferred primary route through the Outer Cape towns. The previous (March 2015) workshop identified priority bicycle and pedestrian route concepts and preferred types of accommodations along the routes, such as a fully separated shared-use path, sidewalk, bicycle lane or shoulder, and share the road. In addition to public meetings, opportunity to provide written comments and review project-related information is also available through the project's website.

For further information about the Outer Cape Bicycle and Pedestrian Master Plan or to provide comments, see the Commission's website at:
